STEELE HEIGHTS SCHOOL

EDMONTON, ALBERTA

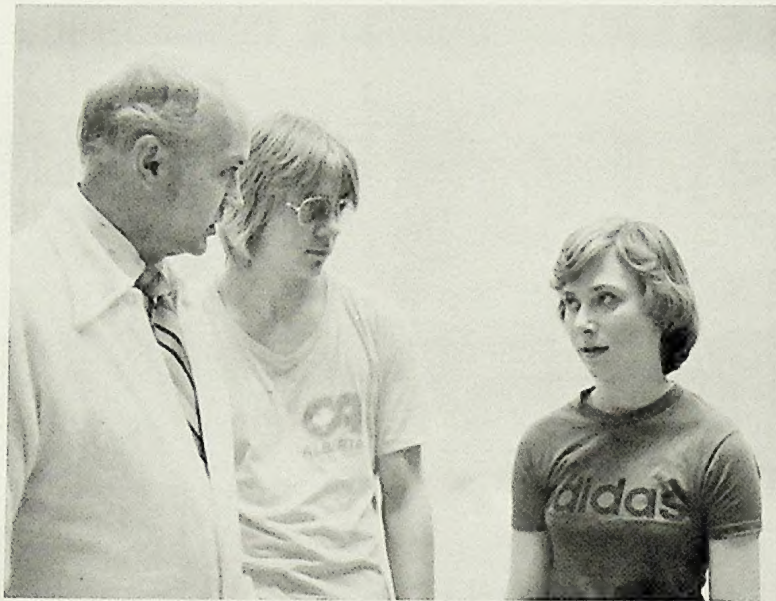

Dedication

Sports and recreation have always played a big part in our society - even more so today. As a tribute to all those interested and involved in sports and fitness activities, the yearbook staff dedicates Excelsior '77 to everyone's efforts towards building physical fitness.

Principal's Message

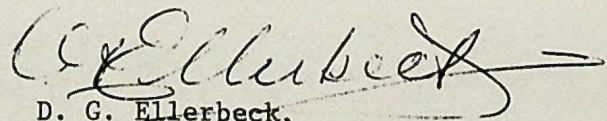

THE VALUE OF FITNESS

Did you ever stop to think that your body is a machine, and that it requires a certain amount of care if you expect it to operate efficiently? Unfortunately, many people actually abuse their bodies through neglect far more than they would ever abuse an automobile or a bicycle. Most machines in daily life can be replaced when they wear out, but the body can never be replaced - in whole or in part - effectively.

About ten minutes of simple exercises every morning can help to keep you in good health and feeling fit throughout the day. Of course it will not counteract the ill effects of over-indulgence in eating, smoking, or lack of sleep, but it will stimulate circulation, increase the respiratory rate, and pep-up the appetite. It tends to give one a feeling of well-being and a brighter outlook on life.

If you take part in sports and other fitness activities, there are many benefits to be gained by strengthening and developing character traits such as courage, determination, self-confidence, perseverance, and self-discipline. You can also develop an understanding of the need for strength and endurance required in many activities in everyday life.

Remember: Great pleasure is gained from taking part in various sport or athletic activities. There is no limit on what you can do or accomplish. There is no record that cannot be broken, no victory that cannot be won. You can do anything you want to do; you can be anything you want to be - if you have confidence, courage, spirit and determination. Select your target now! Good luck to you in your future endeavors.

PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE

This past year it has been my pleasure to serve as President of your Students' Council. We have reached many goals that we set out to accomplish, with only a few obstacles in our way. As we journey into the future, we will encounter problems and expectations of ourselves. Hopefully, the problems will be few.

I would like to take this opportunity to thank the Students' Council Advisors for helping out when needed. I would also like to wish this year's Grade Nine graduates success and happiness in the future, and to the remaining students, I wish as enjoyable an experience as my past years have been at Steele Heights.

Grade Nine

"Those Were The Days.."

9₁

Robert Jenkins was born under Pisces and loved pizza anywhere at night. Cathy-- alias Bozo--Zwaenepoel, whose only ambition was to graduate, hated teachers' bad jokes and left her math corrections to M.P. April Patriquin used to be heard saying, "That's Right!" and she had no favorite gum, stars, or hobbies, and no ambition. "That's Right!" annoyed Tina Mickla who liked 3:15 p.m. and aimed to get in and out of high school. Charlene Andrushak enjoyed macrame, string art, Chinese food and wanted to be a secretary. Turnips and sisters peevd Jeff Bell who was usually seen with all his clothes on. To the janitors of the school, Mark Nobels left his little red sand pail. Brenda Colville, who listened to Nazareth or Kiss while eating fish and chips, left all her books to the future grade nine students. Often seen in silvery blue, Carol Gibb preferred gym class and left behind an inscribed desk.

Myles "Wink" Wilson wanted to be an undertaker. Ricky Platt dived off the airy cliffs of Bermuda, and skied and golfed as well. Willing his gym locker to a disinfectant manufacturer, Kevin Blakely enjoyed goofing off, sleeping late and James Bond movies. He planned to be an electrician or custodian. Garth Astles aimed to be a professional hockey player but didn't like to get out of bed. Brothers and sisters annoyed Griff Clark but he liked hunting, football, and golf. Eating cheeseburgers, Laurie Haczekwicz left her math books to anyone who'll take them. Missionary bound Elaine Westra liked homemade foods, sewing and reading. Sharon Kushnerik devoured butter tarts, milk and pizza, and left her books to the school garbage dump. Kim Bilyea preferred Home Economics so, understandably, she appreciated sweet-and-sour spare ribs.

Sarah Stahlke liked swimming and volleyball, and wanted to be a psychologist. Cynthia Ayers, whose ambition was to finish school, liked reading but not homework. Diane Lund liked the Bee Gees, winter slopes, and 3:15 p.m. Lori Acton often said, "Just Kidding," and she wanted to get rid of her freckles.

Kim Iwaskow, a hockey fan, used to chew Trident gum in Chinese restaurants while trying to fool the waiters with his Paul Lynde imitations. Albert Laurence aimed to be a famous plumber, really thought Moto-Cross Racing was super, and dug Powder Blue movies. Early mornings were a real problem for Tom "Fritz" Gourlay who thought Abbott and Costello were great. Nalini Lata Ram preferred winter, liked visiting Vancouver, and enjoyed swimming. John Huizinga, who dug the Steve Miller Band, had a daring ambition to be a communist leader. A devoted football fan, Danny Begert wanted to be a famous brain surgeon. Ina DeJong, alias Emu, was wont to say "Eat Beans" as she went through life listening to her radio. Randy Warawa, Super Uke, was keen on Tiddley Winks and gym. An avid Gerry Lewis fan, Brad Kelly was seen around school with Steve S., Brent L., and Steve I. Darlene "Big Foot" Parrott was partial to Double Bubble gum and thought that April Wine had a lot going for them.

Eric Wall, Little E.W., a devoted Polka Dot Door fan, revealed his inspiring ambition to become the best hockey player in the Sahara Desert. Alan Wilson, interested in engines, was a celebrated billiards player, and enjoyed watching non-violent television shows. Lori Olander planned to swim through grade nine, and loved her mom's home-made chicken. Doug "McArthur" Carmichael played the guitar and listened to Kiss and Trooper. Sharon Woloshyniuk, a future hair stylist, was a Charlie's Angels fan and loved 3:15 p.m. Jacqllyn "Woody" Padavell had an irrepressible desire for hamburgers and Double Bubble, but was not exactly infatuated with language arts. Linda "Big Bird" Siegel craved corn on the cob, and had always planned to be a naturalist. Caron "Brickholder" was inclined to say "What a Geek" when she was forced to eat peppers and claimed she had nothing of any value to leave to the school. Stephen Leung had two heroes, Six Million Dollar Man, and Bruce Lee, and also liked bicycling. Roxanne Skog, Roxy, could usually be seen playing baseball during summer holidays.

"The Way We 'Wuz'.."

9₃

Karrie McCunn liked being anywhere in B.C., ate lots of fried chicken, and listened to Nazareth. Tony Paskall aimed to be a famous hockey player and loved milkshakes. Ivory, or Karrie Avery, willed all her undone homework to her younger schoolmates. Annette Templin admired Robert Redford and wanted to be a travel agent. Bev Tomaszewsky liked curling, preferred blue, and aimed to be a chartered accountant. Tina Henson wished to be the first girl astronaut and chewed Double Bubble. Sandy Beech, born under Libra, liked swimming and dancing. Donald "Porky" Hodgins, usually seen with a guilty face, planned to be an accountant or pilot. A future computer technologist, Andy Dingman, of sound mind and perfect body, willed his books to all the teachers he ever had. Mark Barnes liked science, ate bananas, and slept a lot.

Diana Dixon enjoyed candle making and planned to be a teacher. Show-offs annoyed Velvet "Tin Can" Tienkamp, whose favorite saying was "Looking Good." Schoolwork annoyed Sandy Olson who was an Aries. Future dentist, John Mulyk or Johnboy, liked chewing Onion Gum, and skiing or curling. Male chauvinists peeved Susan Crouch who wished to travel and to get a university degree in teaching. An early morning fan, Chris Alfrey, disliked commercials and planned to be an artist. Carol Cwyk, who liked horseback riding and summer, left all her books to the boiler room. Gaining weight and busybodies peeved Roxanne Mykitiuk who liked to be alone in dark corners. Alan Donaldson aimed to be rich before the age of twenty.

Sarcastic "smark alecks" annoyed Angie Hooker, who planned to be a secretary. Lauren Broder, who liked swimming and drawing, left behind her books to Mr. Mallet, crayons to Mrs. Kenney, erasers to Mr. Tarrabain, and running shoes to Mrs. Martin. Synchronized swimming enthusiast, Carolyn Tofin, planned to be a physiotherapist. Mike Blossom, future Olympic skier and guitar player, enjoyed eating sunflower seeds. Brian Loney, who liked money and models, planned to be a policeman or lawyer. Larry Yuskow enjoyed after school and planned to get rich quick. Future lawyer, Rod Mackenzie was usually seen with or around food. Michelle "Shmelly" Pylypow, whose ambition was to travel, enjoyed Home Economics and Physical Education. Diana VanRaalten aimed to be a stewardess and enjoyed horseback riding and language arts. Melinda Way ate submarines and pizzas, and wanted to be a veterinarian. Jackie VanDyk liked eating and watching television while her undone homework sat on the table.

Ron Rennie liked social studies but didn't like driving to school in a pink V.W. Heather Scranton spent her time swimming, skating, and playing baseball. David Kent liked to imagine himself flying in one of the model airplanes he made. Lynn Thompson's ambition was to skate around the world. Gary Papaanni's hobbies were learning to drive and playing football with Bruce. Another football player was Darrell Grass, a Scorpio, who loved macaroni. A Taurus, Wendy Repchuk, liked friendly people, skiing, skating, and social studies. Dwayne Harapnuik let it slip out that he liked Charlie's Angels and Farrah Fawcett. Todd Bruhjell's favorite day was December 17th. He also enjoyed Charlie's Angels. Todd Paskall's favorite colors were black and blue, usually acquired around the eye while playing hockey. Howard Chercoe enjoyed hamburgers and Fresh'n Up gum for his lunch on a summer afternoon. Shirley Langier, who aimed to be a teacher, liked Starsky and Hutch. Lucy Potratz wanted to be a successful horseback rider like John Wayne.

Ronnie Thomas liked to drive motorcycles and play hockey until he could become a truck driver. Ramesh Ramdeen, a future pilot, liked flying and gliding. Ken Morgan liked playing hockey, volleyball, and roller skating. The favorite saying of Kevin Gnida, who played football, was "Ye who falls, hits the ground." Kelly Grykuliak liked parties, Nazareth, and Led Zeplin. Brian Krevenchuk's favorite food was holopchi. His hobbies were photography and soccer. Eugene Dugan liked physical education and eating steak. Steve Speakman wanted to be a football player and liked physical education. Sheila Hartzel spent her time listening to Kiss, Uriah Heep, and Nazareth. Barry Fedoruk detested getting up in the morning unless physical education was on his schedule.

"Deep PURPLE and GOLD Dreams..."

Dave Watson was a fan of Baretta, Kiss and football. Rob Olson's ambition was to become famous. Donna Dunkin enjoyed sewing and cooking and wanted to become a model. Darren Hanson, who played hockey and football, planned to become a goalie in the N.H.L. Lauri Tiahlo liked volleyball, basketball, and water-skiing. Pat McCarthy hoped to become a travel agent. She liked poetry and gym. Gerry Huizinga, an Aries, wanted to be a truck driver. Shelley Nistor was usually seen playing volleyball. Sharon Ross liked parties, dancing, and hockey games. Lynn Matthews wanted to become a millionaire. Tracy Skog liked sewing, reading, volleyball, and horses, but hated bossy people. Teresa Rudkevitch, a Scorpio, liked Baretta, Kiss and tennis.

David Wakelam liked social studies, Chinese food, and riding his bike. Debbie Zuk, a future stewardess, admired Robert Redford. Randy Wilk, usually seen with Dave and Gerry, listened to Alice Cooper, Kiss and Elton John. Bradley Zawadiuk, who especially liked pizza and steak, hoped to become a cook. Steve Iwaszkiw liked Chinese food, pizza, and Fresh'n Up gum. Barry Ruttan wanted to win the Indy Five Hundred and get rich. Dave Hodson's ambition was to become a superstar. Lonny Petraschuk planned to go into stock car racing. Martin Tabak wanted to make a million dollars by the time he was twenty. Kent Sponagle also wanted to become rich like his favorite stars Marlon Brando and John Wayne. Don Stanton, who liked Baretta and Steve Kiley, wanted to be a dairy farmer. Robert Adams enjoyed hunting and fishing but hated getting up early. Roland Gotzman could often be seen playing street hockey or football. Brent Larsen built models, listened to records, and played hockey, football, and basketball. Ellen Winter liked language arts and wanted to be a legal secretary.
